MISS AMERICA WINS AWARD

Atlantic City, N. J.—Miss Frances M. Burke, the 19-year-old Philadelphia model, won international acclaim as the height of feminine loveliness, when she won the crown and title of "Miss America, 1940," in the great annual Atlantic City Beauty Pageant. She is pictured above with the Ladies of her Court, the less fortunate beauty contestants.

With practically every State and major city in the United States represented by a gorgeous young miss, the judging staff had a most difficult time in picking the girl who would stand forth as America's representative beauty for this year.

When "Miss Philadelphia," Frances Burke, was given the coveted crown of "Miss America, 1940," her first and most appropriate award was a handsome, new 17-jewel Bulova "Miss America" wrist watch, suitably engraved for this "Queen of Beauty." Bulova Watches were also presented to the other contestants, pictured above.

Miss Burke could not give any information as to her future plans, except to state that she expects to tour the United States, with her home town, Philadelphia, as the first stop.

Fires 10,000 Shots a Minute, Silently

Put through a test by its two inventors, William Hale and Durand Beam, this rifle fired 10,000 shots per minute—with absolutely no noise. The rifle operates with compressed air. It reduced three-inch oak planks to kindling and turned airplane armor plate into steel mosquito netting. It resembles a sub-machine gun, and when it starts firing the barrel gets cooler instead of heating up.
